Niraj sharma

Hey there! I'm a skillful PHP web developer with a knack for building awesome websites. I'm your go-to person for both making things look great on the front-end and ensuring everything runs smoothly on the back-end. I love creating applications that are strong, scalable, and super secure. I pay close attention to the little details and stay up-to-date with the latest trends in the industry. My mission is to deliver top-notch websites that not only meet but surpass client expectations. Let's make the web a better place together!

TRAINING/ CERTIFICATIONS

WEB DESIGNING IN REAL WORLD

Ekuthi / 2021

I completed professional web design training at Ekuthi Training Center, gaining real-world skills. As part of the training, I successfully crafted a personal portfolio website, including an engaging landing page. This hands-on experience has honed my web design abilities and equipped me with practical knowledge for creating impactful online experiences.

Project

Shop management system

I designed a Shop Management System for a tea wholesaler, streamlining sales records, inventory tracking, and payments. It efficiently handles sales, keeps tabs on stock levels, and tracks customer payments. This system simplifies the tea business by providing a clear overview of sales and outstanding payments, making day-to-day operations a breeze.

E-commerce site

I built a simple user-friendly e-commerce website where customers can easily place orders. Sellers can conveniently view their orders and access detailed information through a unique order ID. The system ensures a seamless experience for both buyers and sellers, facilitating smooth order management and providing quick access to

Personal expenses tracking

I developed a personal expense tracking website to efficiently manage my finances. The platform records my income, expenses, loans, and transactions, including money given and taken from other. It also handles campus fees, room rent, and calculates room expenses. This tool has been instrumental in providing a clear overview of my financial activities, making budgeting and financial planning a breeze
